Bowen, Anna Cornelia	Born: September 8, 1857 in Batavia. Daughter of former State Senator George Bowen, 1870-74. He died in 1921 aged 89. Attended Batavia schools. Miss Porter's in Farmington, Conn. Cornell University - BS & PHD. UB. Harvard Annex for Women. Member of: Kappa Alpha Theta; SPCA and other humane societies; Society for Advancement of Science;

Buffalo Auto club.

Mary McCulley says she remembers a story about friends helping Anna get ready to go to some sort of party late in life. She had not been in the habit of going out and was very particular about details of dress. Mary says the story was that it took two days to wash and coif her, to get clothes in order, her person powdered and finished to her satisfaction, and by the time she was ready to go, she was too tired. Rumor also says she was neither pleasant nor friendly. Katherine McLellan says she lived on the farm on West Main Street and the McLellan family often saw her in her car, dogs on the back seat, one on the front seat with the Chauffeur.

"The Love Idyl and Other Poems" Crown Publishing Co. Contains two poems by Miss Bowen: The Circus Maximus and The Shadow.

A much reprinted poem by Miss Bowen thought to be Michelangelo.

Another poem in Galleon Press Anthology by Anon.

Home from Cambridge where she was taking a course at Harvard Annex for Women 12-16-1886

Home few days after course. 3-2-1887

Poem by A. Bowen:

My child, if many weary days
 I need thee in my vast domain
 To fashion, reconstruct, revise.
 Thy being perfecting the chain
 Of being, thou must live again.

But if thy work is done, why grieves
 My spirit for my (forced) deep
 With all the murmuring baneful heaven
 Shall chant its music tender, sweet
 The peace of thine eternal sleep. 11-30-1887
