	Obit - died 5pm March 13. Born in Ireland. Became clerk in grocery of Joseph W. Wilson. Bought out in 1864. In few years turned over to Buxton & Brown but afterward went back to it. About 10 years ago sold the store to J. C. Shultz and set up his own furniture business. Very energetic and active - had luck with investments. Married Anna Brindle of Stafford - 8 children, 4 daughters and a son now living. Recently bought home on East Main Street. Obituary.
	Inventory of Dailey store mostly sold.	7-12-1883

A note in the Daily News asks for information about Monica. It was signed by Richard Weininger, 415 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10017. The name, Richard Weininger, is signed on several notes and cards in the Dailey file at the Land Office - one which speaks of some time caring for her.	4-29-1967
Dorothy Hilchey says she was a nurse on the ward when Monica finally had to go for her final illness. She says her hair had been ? At home, and was a harsh bright mess. When it was thoroughly shampooed it was perfectly white in color and of a beautiful fine texture - hair she should have been proud of. Almeta George says one of the stories told her when she came to Batavia in 1946 was that Monica had fallen in love in Germany, and had been jilted. Mary McCulley says it was generally believed that Monica was waiting for a letter that never came. She did go to Germany in 1903 and 1914.	5-31-1984
Bill Collins says Monica used to stay at night with the Collins' her last years. She allowed them to believe she abandoned her concert career because Batavia gave her poor support. Bill says a large ball was scheduled the day of her concert in the Dellinger Theatre, and that was the last straw.	December 1987

	FOLLOWING ARE UNDATED: A woman who was companion to Monica in later life says the Dailey family did not approve of the woman Joseph married and did not want her to inherit any Daily property. This is why everything was left to St. Joseph's Church. Marian Artman says Monica came to her mother to have a dress made for a concert in Europe - a dress with a train. Marian was taking piano lessons from Mrs. McCarthy and unhappy with her. Monica went to the piano and helped Marian - who was about 6. Monica was breathtakingly beautiful, and very sweet. She had to get a sheet from upstairs to keep the train from being soiled. She says: a concert in Germany. Anne Reilly says that when her son Jim was in high school he used to dust the Dailey house from top to bottom on Saturday to make money for school. Miss Dailey, to make a dull job more bearable, would play the piano while he worked - all the lovely classical music he loved.
