Mary Pat Hancock, Chair

The Genesee County Legislature is pleased to make available for your use, the 2010 Genesee County Manual. This book is offered as a service and can be used as a reference to help locate the appropriate individuals and/or offices who can not only listen to your concerns, but will help you to find answers to your questions.

This booklet also includes useful and updated information about your elected officials. County services and departments, the operation of the County Legislature, and telephone listings for the County as well as other Municipalities in our Genesee County Community are included for your convenience. We are providing this information for you as these qualified and dedicated men and women of the County workforce, and your elected representatives, are happy to serve you.

Remember that one purpose of this manual is to make it easier for you to become actively involved in your local government. There are many committees and agencies that could use the assistance of people who care. The collaborative effort of individuals, departments, agencies and municipalities, all working together to improve their community is effective in Genesee County. We invite your participation and depend upon your input.

Sincerely,

Mary Pat Hancock

Chair, Genesee County Legislature

LOCATION AND HISTORY

Genesee County is located in Western New York, midway between the major urban areas of Rochester and Buffalo. In 2000 the County had a population of 60,377 people and, with the exception of the City of Batavia (2000 population 16,256), is quite rural in nature. The County includes thirteen towns, six villages and the City of Batavia which is the County seat.

The Senecas, who were members of the Iroquois Confederacy, controlled Western New York until the close of the 18th Century. One of their meeting locations was at the bend of the Tonawanda Creek, near the heart of today's Batavia. Before this vast territory could be opened for pioneer settlement, it was necessary to obtain the land from the Native Americans. Today the Tonawanda Indian Reservation, located within a section of the township of Alabama, is home for many area Senecas.

Land has always been the County's greatest asset. The diversity of soils and climate conditions attracted the early settlers who carved out homes and farms, developing Genesee into one of the richest agricultural regions within New York State. Genesee County has the highest percentage of classified farmlands in the state and three of the top one hundred vegetable farms in the country. The fertile muck soil in Elba has made Genesee one of the principal counties in the nation for growing beets and onions. Dairy farming is still the leading commodity in the County and over all Genesee is fourth in agriculture sales within New York State.

In addition to land, Genesee County has been blessed with rich mineral deposits of gypsum, limestone, natural gas and salt. These minerals along with early industries and businesses have enhanced the development of local communities. The residents of the County have always understood the merit of quality education and its value on economic and social growth. The first school house was constructed in 1801, one year before the County was formed. By the 1830's seminaries were established throughout the County and in LeRoy, Ingham University was chartered in 1857. This institution is credited with being the first University for women in the United States. The New York State School for the Blind was started in 1865 and is located on a beautiful campus in Batavia. The foundation of the County's education system is a city school district and seven area central schools. A higher education may be obtained locally at the Genesee Community College which offers liberal arts and professional skills.

Genesee County has a variety of recreational opportunities for every age and interest. Six Flags Darien Lake now features more than one hundred rides, including one of the tallest and fastest roller coasters in North America. The Genesee County Park and Forest is the oldest county facility in the state. Situated in the town of Bethany, the park comprises more than four hundred acres and offers year round enjoyment. The 2,000 acres of the Bergen-Byron Swamp was dedicated in 1964 as a National Natural History Landmark by the United State's Department of Interior. The rich historical significance of the County may be experienced in the variety of local museums. The two largest, the Holland Land Office and the LeRoy House are both treasure troves of artifacts from the past. Each of the museums offers unique displays that illustrate the daily lives from the inhabitants who contributed to the development of our County.

GOVERNMENT

The original Genesee County was established on March 30, 1802 and included all of Western New York. As populations grew within this region, the neighboring eight counties were established. County government began in 1803 with the completion of the first courthouse west of the Genesee River and the election of County officers. The present day Genesee County encompasses 501 square miles and received its name from the Seneca word meaning "Beautiful Valley". County government was conducted by the Board of Supervisors and was replaced on March 1, 1967 with the establishment of the County Legislature. The nine-member County Legislature created the position of County Manager in 1980, which oversees and coordinates the twenty six County Departments.
